Reproductive & Sexual Health

Family Planning NSW Clinical Forums are held across NSW, offering a great opportunity for primary healthcare practitioners to update their knowledge and skills in the area of reproductive and sexual health. The one-day interactive Clinical Forums cover up-to-date guidelines and resources across a range of relevant topics, and include case discussions and hands-on procedural practice.

Led by Family Planning NSW's expert clinicians, the Clinical Forums include the following topics:

- What's new in reproductive and sexual health
- Cervical screening update and pelvic model practice
- Contraceptive implant workshop including insertion and removal practice on model arms
- Common gynaecological presentations in primary care, including contraception, STI and menopause
- Opportunity to discuss cases with the experts
- Local initiatives in sexual health promotion
