

HAVE YOUR SAY ABOUT HEALTH SERVICES IN YOUR COMMUNITY!

Come along to a free community workshop and tell us your health story.

The Western NSW Primary Health Network (WNSW PHN) is undertaking a Needs Analysis of the priorities for health across western and far western NSW to find out:

- What works well,
- Where there are gaps in services,
- How to do better at supporting and delivering appropriate primary health care services

Aboriginal Health is a key priority and we especially want to hear from Aboriginal people so we are holding separate Aboriginal health yarning sessions.

We will then take away the learnings from the community and insights we learn from GP's and other service providers and join them up with data collected on our region's health to inform how we continue to support, plan and fund the best primary care for our people into the future.
